Applicants' Reply filed September 29, 2007 is acknowledged. Claims 10 and 15-19 remain under consideration.

Applicants' argument in response to the rejection set forth in the last Office Action is persuasive. The rejection of record under 35 U.S.C. 103 is hereby withdrawn. The following rejections represent the only rejections applied to the present claims.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Claims 10 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Koga et al., Drugs of the Future.

Koga teaches the administration of the compound of instant Formula I, which is designated GM-611, a motilin receptor agonist, to treat idiopathic constipation and constipation-dominant irritable bowel syndrome. See page 270, left column, lines 14-18. The compound was shown to induce strong contractions in the stomach, and the contractions migrated caudally along the small intestine. Such an effect would have resulted in an acceleration of defecation.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 10 and 15-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Koga et al., Drugs of the Future.

Koga teaches the administration of the compound of instant Formula I, which is designated GM-611, a motilin receptor agonist, to treat idiopathic constipation and constipation-dominant irritable bowel syndrome. See page 270, left column, lines 14-18. The compound was shown to induce strong contractions in the stomach, and the contractions migrated caudally along the small intestine. Such an effect would have resulted in an acceleration of defecation.

As required by claims 15-18, constipation, regardless of its etiology, i.e., that induced by an analgesic; by a functional bowel disorder, such as irritable bowel syndrome; or through age-related decreases in intrinsic colonic reflexes, would have reasonably been suggested by the teachings of Koga. In all cases, the presence of motilin receptors on colonic smooth muscle provides a potential therapeutic application for GM-611. The effect of GM-611 is generally thought to be more pronounced than that of existing gastroprokinetic agents.

No claim is allowed.
